

POSTED WARNINGS

1747

(November 1991)

When, in the judgment of a department employee, a temporary hazard to the public welfare exists, it is that employee's duty to place a temporary barrier, a temporary warning sign, or both, at the location \(see Section 1735 Emergency Response to Hazardous Incidents). The employee may not actually close or quarantine property over which the employee or the department has no jurisdiction. In extreme cases, it may be necessary to contact the proper person, such as the local law enforcement or engineering official, the Office of Emergency Services (OES), or the county health officer. If the hazardous condition will extend for longer than an hour, the responsible local employee should inform supervisors of the problem.
